DESCRIPTION

Bias impacts everything. From the decisions we make, to the way we respond in certain situations, to how we see and treat others, our myriad of biases are often at the helm, even at work. And the scariest part is many of us have no idea.

Each and every one of us has bias. If you have a brain, you have bias. And that bias, if unmanaged, presents opportunity for us to do true harm to those around us, ourselves, and our organizations. It can create non-inclusive, even hostile work environments that yield decreased team performance, turnover, and less than desired business results.

In this interactive and thought-provoking program, Raven introduces attendees to their own personal biases, provides context for their potential sources, and reveals their true potential impact. She helps attendees begin to effectively “rumble” with bias through four proven strategies to aid in awareness and combating bias.

OBJECTIVES

- Identify what unconscious bias is and when it is occurring
- Explore the threat of unconscious bias on your organization
- Understand the sources and potential impact of unconscious bias
- Recognize 6 common biases that impact work
- Identify four strategies to effectively “rumble” with unconscious bias

AUDIENCE

Employees and/or leaders at all levels
